Information Session on Planning an Event for World TB Day 2023

March 2nd, 2023
10:00-11:30

To encourage community health staff to create and host an event/activity promoting World TB Day (Friday, March 24th) within their community. This session will discuss how to plan a TB event/activity and will provide examples while engaging in brainstorming activities. This session is meant to review key planning principles and build on resources and education that was provided to community TB workers in 2020. Attendance to the 2020 session is not a prerequisite to attending this session.

Learning Outcomes:

At the end of the session, you will have the tools and resources needed to plan, create, and implement a TB event/activity in your community.

Speakers:

Andrea Warman (FNIHB Regional TB Program Coordinator),
Deana Nahachewsky (FNIHB TB Screening and Education Nurse),
Sharon Lane (University of Alberta Nursing Student)

Target Audience: Healthcare workers involved in community TB efforts such as community health nurses, DOT workers, TB workers and/or community health representatives. Having more than one team member participate in this session is encouraged and recommended.
