Safer Sexy: What You Need to Know About STIs

July 24, 2024

1:30-3:00pm MDT

Our workshop aims to breakdown STIs by diving into how they are transmitted, strategies for prevention, and consider how they are talked about. Come learn, ask questions, and empower yourself with the knowledge to support healthier communities.
Please note that this session will not be recorded or uploaded to our website.

Learning Outcomes:

- Recall the different types of STIs
- Identify how STIS are transmitted and the risk level for STI transmission associated with different sexual activities
- Give examples of strategies to reduce the risk of STI transmission
- Practice communicating with a partner about harm reduction strategies

Speakers:

Darren, RSW, Centre for Sexuality, Community Relationship and Sexual Health Educator. Over the past few years as a community educator, I've been fortunate to be invited into various schools and programs within Treaty 7 to share space with first nation's communities. I look forward to it each time as it becomes a reciprocal learning space where I always walk away learning something new.

Target Audience: Youth/Teens who are looking to increase their knowledge of STIs and preventing transmission of STIs within their communities
