

The Impacts of Climate Change on Mental Health and Well-being

April 12, 2024

10:00-11:30 MST

In this session, the audience will have an opportunity to learn from the latest findings on the impacts of climate change to mental health and well-being in Canada and discuss actions to support psychosocial resilience.

Learning Outcomes:

- Gain an understanding of the inequitable burden of climate-related mental health disorders
- Understand approaches to surveillance and monitoring of the mental health effects of climate change
- Explore numerous pathways of how climate change affects mental health and well-being
- Explore interventions to support mental health and well-being in a changing climate

Speakers:

Katie Hayes, PhD, Senior Policy Analyst, Climate Change and Innovation Bureau at Health Canada. Experience working with First Nations as an adult educator for the Neskonlith First Nations Community between 2008-2009

Target Audience: Anyone who is interested in discussing how climate change affects mental health and exploring adaptation opportunities
