Source Water Protection Planning

May 16, 2024

10:00-11:30am MST

The session will introduce the audience to the Alberta Water Council and what source water protection planning is. It will cover recent work by the Alberta Water Council to develop a guide that supports watershed groups, municipalities and others to develop source water protection plans.

Learning Outcomes:

- Participants will learn about the Alberta Water Council
- Participants will learn about protecting sources of drinking water using the source water protection planning

Speakers:

Andre Asselin, Bsc. Andre was born and raised in Edmonton, Alberta. His family moved here from Ontario in the 1970s. He has a passion for water and is the Executive Director of two organizations, the Alberta Water Council and the Clean Air Strategic Alliance. He holds a BSc in Environmental Economics and Policy from the University of Alberta. He was an Honoured Guest at the 2019 Samson Cree Nation Pow Wow. Members of the Technical Services Advisory Group and members of the nipiy committee of Samson Cree Nation have participated on Alberta Water Council teams, including the current Drought Mutual Support Committee.

Target Audience: Everyone will learn something about the Alberta Water Council and how to protect sources of drinking water, but people who are involved in providing and protecting drinking water sources for their communities will find this especially interesting.
