

Sexuality Across the Lifespan: Supporting Sexual Health in Older Adults

November 19, 2024

1:30-3:00pm MST

Engaging seniors in conversations about sexual health provides them with the tools to continue to live healthy, active lives. The training includes discussions of specific issues related to sexuality that older adults may experience, such as questions of consent, and ways to work with the older adult's family and other supports. Participants will leave the session with practical tools and strategies to address sexual health and sexuality with older adult populations.

*Please note that this session will not be recorded or uploaded to our website.

Learning Outcomes:

- Defining sexuality and sexual health in a broad context
- Reflect on personal attitudes and values about sexuality
- Increase confidence and comfort in addressing older adults' concerns and needs about sexual health

Speakers:

Diana Wark, Registered Social Worker with the Centre for Sexuality - Training Centre Facilitator; has working with Indigenous and First Nations communities throughout her career in many capacities

Target Audience: Health and social service professionals and paraprofessionals working with older adults
